The goal of the Single Global Currency Association is the implementation of a single global currency, to be managed by a global central bank/monetary institution, by 2024. The 2006 Third Annual Single Global Currency Conference will explore aspects of the planned single global currency and monetary unions. The First Conference was on July 9, 2004, and the second on July 14-15, 2005. These conferences are held each July, to mark the anniversary of the July, 1944 Bretton Woods Monetary Conference. The single global currency will solve the primary problem faced by the 1944 conference: multiple currencies valued by various exchange rate systems. The primary benefits of a single global currency are the end of transaction costs for trading currencies, the end of Balance of Payment problems, and the end of currency speculation, currency crises, currency risk and currency misalignments. In proportion to the reduction of currency risk, asset valuations will increase substantially. As former Federal Reserve Chair Paul Volcker has written, "A global economy requires a global currency." Papers and proposed presentations are welcome.
