The Department of Research, Studies and Statistics for Labor of the French Ministries of Labor and Economy (DARES) is pleased to invite you to participate in the international conference on the employment of older workers. The event will take place on Thursday, October 14, 2010 from 8.30am to 5.30pm in the Conference Room "Pierre Laroque" of the French Ministry of Health and Sports (14 avenue Duquesne, 75007 Paris). The DARES conference aims to present the lessons of new economic research on the employment of older workers carried out in several countries, including France. The conference will gather experts from the academic community (France, Europe and the United States) who will describe the main determinants of the employment of older workers and the most efficient instruments to promote it with regard to different reforms conducted in European countries and the U.S. The conference is organized around three thematic sessions on the respective role of: (i) employment of older workers, health, working conditions, vocational training, pension rules, labor market institutions. David Wise will deliver the keynote presentation opening the conference. David Wise is a John F. Stambaugh Professor of Political Economy, John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University and Area Director Health and Aging programs, National Bureau of Economic Research. The conference registration is now open: http://www.polynome.fr/dares2010/index_va.php You can exclusively register online. The registration deadline is October 8, 2010.
